

Legal Notice. Regulations applicable at a national level

The owner of this website is the Spanish Geological and Mining Institute (IGME), a Public Research Body of the Ministry of the Economy, Industry, and Competitiveness, attached to the Research, Development, and Innovation State Secretariat with its headquarters at Calle Ríos Rosas 23, Madrid.

This Legal Notice applies to this entire website including all of its contents. If you are not in conformity with this Legal Notice and the sections set forth below on the IGME data policy and the licensing conditions for the re-use of the information and data belonging to the IGME, do not use this website. By using the website or the contents and services it contains you are implicitly accepting the legal provisions set forth in this document.

Access and use of the information on this website is carried out fundamentally in accordance with the provisions laid down in Law 37/2007 of 16 November on the re-use of public-sector information, which text transposes European Directive 2003/98/EC into Spanish Law. Specifically, it sets out the basic regulation of the body of law applicable to the re-use of information generated or administered by public-sector authorities and bodies.

Said Law, the national public provisions of which are implemented by way of Royal Decree 1495/2011 of 24 October, forms part of a wider legislative trend which is seeking to promote the development of the Information Society in Spain.

USER LICENCE: Conditions governing the public use and dissemination of the information for the re-use of the IGME data.

Access to the data and information available on the IGME website, and in general terms, access to any information supplied by the IGME, is carried out under a user licence which shall be obtained automatically, and the use thereof shall presume knowledge of and acceptance of the access requirements and licence conditions set forth below:

1. In generic terms, the re-use and dissemination of the IGME information and data is granted and supported by way of this free licence for commercial and non-commercial use, for any purpose, and specifically for the generation of products and services with added value.

This licence comes with a series of common and extendable general conditions for all sets of IGME information and data, and certain special conditions for some specific sets of data.

The IGME information may be accessed either via the WEB or by way of an explicit request made through the channels available for this purpose.

2. General conditions governing re-use in accordance with the ANNEX to Royal Decree 1495/2011 of 24 October on the implementation of Law 37/2007 on the re-use of public-sector information:

- (1) Users are not allowed to alter the meaning of the information.

Any transformation or modification of the information when it is re-used may not amount to any kind of alteration of its content.

- (2) The source of the documents being re-used must be credited using the following wording: "Source: "©Spanish Geological and Mining Institute (IGME)".

This credit may be made more precise for products or specific sets of data.

The licence holder undertakes to properly credit the IGME as the source and owner of the geological/geo-scientific information supplied in any use or dissemination thereof, in full or in part, or in any product that incorporates it or is derived therefrom.

- (3) Where the original document that is being re-used states the date on which it was last updated, said date must be quoted.
- (4) It may not be stated, implied, or suggested that the Spanish Geological and Mining Institute (IGME), as owner of the information being re-used, participates in, sponsors, or supports the re-use.
- (5) Any metadata concerning the date of the latest update and the re-use conditions included in the document made available to the applicant shall be preserved and shall not be altered or removed.

3. IGME general conditions for the re-use of its information

- (1) The licence holder acknowledges and accepts that it is possible that some data will be out of date or incorrect.
- (2) The IGME reserves the right to make changes to the website without prior notice, with the aim of updating, correcting, altering, adding, or deleting the contents of the Portal or its design. The contents and services offered by the Portal shall be updated from time to time.

The IGME reserves the right to make technical changes to its website without prior notice in order to maintain its availability in the event of misuse or automated access by web bots.

- (3) In the event of an express request for information from the IGME, this may not be re-used for any purpose other than that for which it was requested or that which is set forth in the licence conditions for specific data, and it may not be supplied to third parties unless this is expressly indicated in the licence.

- (4) Certain databases or data sets may be subject to special conditions of use which limit access to and downloading of the information in some cases and which will be set forth in the special conditions of their licence.
- (5) Any new products that may derive from the IGME information and data shall not replace those offered by the Spanish Geological and Mining Institute.

Exclusion of liability

The use of the IGME information and data shall be carried out by users or re-use agents at their own risk, and they shall be exclusively liable as against third parties for any losses that may derive therefrom.

The Spanish Geological and Mining Institute (IGME) shall not be liable for the use made of its information by re-use agents, or for any harm incurred or economic losses that may directly or indirectly cause economic or material losses or data losses, caused by the use of the re-used information.

The Spanish Geological and Mining Institute (IGME) does not guarantee the future availability of the documents, information, or data that may be re-used, whether in respect of their content or their form, and it does not accept any liability for any error or omission that they may contain.

Liability of the re-use agent

The re-use agent shall be subject to the regulations governing the re-use of public-sector information, including the penalties set forth in article 11 of Law 37/2007 of 16 November on the re-use of public-sector information.